3x3: Grasp the Immaterial Snapshot _Process Review 02

Paulina Sadrak - Poland, Lodz

Nanna Aspholm-Flik - Germany/Finland, Stuttgart/Tampere

Heike Ehrath - Germany, Sulzbach

The 3x3 uses English as means of communication.

The international 3x3 team spent September 2023 as artist residents at Haihatus Art Center in Joutsa, Finland. Their self-initiated textile-process-project was launched in February 2023 and it spans three years and covers three countries. In an open-end process, in Finland, Germany and Poland, the unfolding and taking hold of the immaterial in textiles, grasping its past in the present, is explored. Each team-member defines her own focus and route.

Paulina, Nanna and Heike are professional international textile makers and educators (art academy, teachers' college, weaving centers). Individually they engage in a wide scope of textile-related activities through research, fiber art and crafts' exhibitions, competition-participation, curating, museum-collaborations, etc.

Hand weaving as an artistic and craft technique is highly valued and still present in Finland. The numerous Taito-centers of the Finnish Crafts Association Taitoliitto commit to upholding, disseminating and modernizing old craft skills, including weaving. In Finland Taitoliitto is UNESCO's partner.

The 3x3-team's collaboration with and exchange at Taito-Joutsa was a rewarding two-way exchange. A non-hierarchical and collegial contact with Finnish textile craft-experts was possible. The professional equipment at the Taito-crafts center enabled the team's immediate immersion in the hands on textile-making.

In the studio at Utopia House, Haihatus Art Center, the project's playful and experimental side came to fruition. Branches, grass, flowers, mushrooms and blueberries from the surrounding woods were spread out as source of inspiration and crafting in an inspiring laboratory-like testing ground. Art was exhibited, some of which is now on show at the Gedok Gallery.

The 3x3-team had access to the Haihatus Gallery starting 23 September. A 3x3: Grasp the Immaterial Snapshot _Process Review 01 was organized with the aim to reach out and interact with the local Joutsu community. Spanning numerous days, the common public, school-classes, women's groups and private visits were accommodated. The 3x3-team presented thoughts and works of their "Grasping the Immaterial?" explorations and invited and encouraged everyone to craft-interactions in the many workshops. Digitally the vitas, activities and works of the 3x3 team were shown as a beamer-projection in the gallery-space. A learning with and from each other took place.

In late March 2024 the 3x3 team meets again. This time the so-called "Fliegender Wechsel" at Gedok Stuttgart spurs a new project phase. The location and event serve as a new ground for study, experiment and reflection, this time in Germany. Paulina's, Heike's and Nanna's textilejourney steps forward. While reflecting on the past, the team-members are sturdily grounded in the present. Maybe some hints of foreboding ideas of the respective textile futures are aired...
